CSG-WEST and its neighboring region, CSG South, partner with states on both sides of the U.S.-Mexico border to work on key issues affecting the security and prosperity of the border region.
The Executive Committee serves as the board of directors of CSG-WEST reviewing the work and activities of policy committees, adopting policy positions, selecting participants for the Western Legislative Academy and approving the annual selection of CSG-WEST officers.

The Committee is comprised of
- Four CSG-WEST officers
- Presiding legislative officers of both chambers of each Western state

Integrating Technology and Learning
July 23, 2012
CSG-WEST Annual Meeting
Edmonton, Alberta

The Education Committee, featured a panel discussion of how technology is being integrated into instruction for the 21st century student, including a review of national education technology policies and teacher training. Presentations were provided by Douglas A. Levin from the State Educational Technology Directors Association (SETDA) and Pam Goins of CSG.

Colorado Representative Tom Massey showcased an example of technology innovation in K-12 and higher education. Assistant Superintendent of Student Learning Services at Edmonton Public Schools, Tanni Parker, spoke about Edmonton Public Schools’ success and top honor recognition from around the world with regard to technology.

Policy Academy on Implementation Costs of College and Career - Readiness Standards
September 27-29, 2012, Fort Myers, Florida

Western legislators participated in a CSG Policy Academy on implementation costs of career readiness standards. Topics discussed included how Common Core State Standards are being implemented in states, building school capacity for student success in tight economic times and ways to align key state policies to transform the education system.

Education Committee

With education funding constituting a large portion of every state budget, the Education Committee provides the opportunity for Western legislators to share innovative programs and best practices aimed at achieving successful educational outcomes with limited resources.
Western policymakers heard from a leading expert on current world energy supply and demand and what it will look like 10-15 years in the future. What was made very apparent is the impact geopolitical events have on world energy supply and demand due to the tightly integrated nature of the world's energy markets. The other major variable in future energy supplies is the role technological innovation plays in expediting extraction as demonstrated by the impact that horizontal drilling and fracking have had on energy production in the U.S.

The committee heard about Canadian innovations to reduce greenhouse gas emissions during oil sands production including the production of petrochemical feedstocks from off gas byproducts and the use of residual natural gas by oil sands producers for additional mining production. These processes are energy saving, provide valuable products for the petrochemical industries and keep tons of carbon emissions from entering the atmosphere.

Committee participants also explored the major issues surrounding successful pipeline siting and permitting identifying the TransCanada Keystone XL project as an example. Members learned that it is not only environmental concerns and regulatory requirements that impact pipeline routing but the cultural and political considerations of local communities, particularly if the pipeline involves foreign countries.

Policymakers concluded with a look at draft language for the creation of an interstate compact for electrical transmission line siting initiated by CSG’s National Center for Interstate Compacts. The compact would go a long way to coordinating individual state permitting requirements.
Cutting-Edge Budget Innovations

July 22, 2012 CSG-WEST Annual Meeting
Edmonton, Alberta

What’s happening in Washington, D.C.?

Chris Whatley, Director of CSG’s Washington, D.C. Office, explained how a perfect storm of fiscal challenges was rapidly approaching with the expiration of three major tax cuts (the Bush cuts, the payroll cut and the AMT exemption), scheduled reductions in Medicaid doctors payments (the “Doc Fix”), the threat of $109 billion in FY13 sequestration cuts, and a looming debt ceiling vote.

Results First: Cutting-Edge Budget Strategies in the West

Results First Director, Dr. Gary VanLandingham of the Pew Center on the States in Washington D.C., addressed the critical need for better ways to allocate resources. Results First uses a cutting-edge cost-benefit analysis to analyze key state policy areas, enabling states to analyze a wide range of policy choices and identifying those that can maximize outcomes and reduce costs. Washington Senator Karen Fraser provided examples of how the Washington State Institute for Public Policy utilized the Results First model for six different major successes in the criminal justice field.

Tax and Financial Incentives: What’s Working in the West?

The new CSG report “Trends in Western State Business Incentives” was released at this meeting. The report concept originated by legislators attending the 2011 CSG-WEST fiscal affairs forum, and it was brought to completion by Western state economic development staff.

The report looks at trends in type and number of incentive programs used by states in the West, along with a brief review of economic trends and evaluations of trends in employment, unemployment and gross domestic product. A profile of each Western state is also provided, highlighting successful incentive and development programs, oversight and accountability measures, and recent legislative activity.

Three successful Western state economic development programs were presented at the fiscal forum from Karla Tartz of Colorado’s Blueprint Plan, Nathan Buehler of Business Oregon and Gynii Gillian with Idaho’s Workforce Development Training Program.
Futures Committee and Alberta Legislative Assembly Hold Mock Session

July 22, 2012 CSG-WEST Annual Meeting
Edmonton, Alberta

With enthusiastic pounding of desks and noisy cries of “here, here,” Western state legislators took part in a lively mock session with Alberta legislative counterparts.

The joint program from the Legislative Assembly of Alberta and the CSG-WEST Future of Western Legislatures Committee gave U.S. lawmakers a better grasp of parliamentary democracy generally and the legislature of Alberta specifically.

Futures Committee Chair Rep. Sam Hunt (WA) served as premier during the mock session, and Futures Committee members assumed roles as cabinet ministers. Futures Vice Chair Rep. Gary MacLaren (MT) served as leader of the Official Opposition party. When it came time for Royal Assent (final approval of bills comes from the Crown), a purple-robed Rep. Maxine Bell (ID) did the honors in her new found role as Lieutenant Governor.

Alberta Speaker Gene Zwozdesky presided, and a handful of Alberta MLAs (Members of Legislative Assembly) sat in the legislative chamber to coach U.S. lawmakers on the intricacies of parliamentary democracy.

When the session concluded, Western lawmakers quizzed Alberta counterparts on differences and similarities of the two democratic systems. Alberta lawmakers expressed interest in observing the state legislative system in the U.S. and were cordially invited to do so by their U.S. counterparts.
The International Trade Committee focused on four topics at the 65th CSG-WEST annual meeting: State Trade and Export Promotion (STEP) Program, interstate commerce, state regulations on freight size and weight, and the impact of the Panama Canal expansion on Western ports.

Participants learned that STEP has a grant component available to states to increase the number of eligible small businesses in exporting and to increase the value of exports for those that are currently exporting. It is a federal match grant program authorized at $30 million/year through 2013. Since implementation of this program, 47 states and five territories have applied and received funding, including all 13 CSG-WEST member states.

Leo Penne at the American Association of State Highway and Transportation Officials (AASHTO) based in Washington, D.C., addressed issues involving freight transportation by all modes and nexus with industries having significant interests in freight movement and transportation infrastructure. Don Ipson at DATS Trucking, Inc. contributed to this discussion, providing real-world examples of the challenges posed by variations in state regulations in regards to standardization of size and weight of transport trucks in the Western states.

Opportunities and challenges regarding the Panama Canal expansion were addressed by Linda Styrk of the Seaport Division at Port of Seattle. The expansion is scheduled to be completed in 2014. Combined with expected growth in global trade, U.S. participation in the Trans-Pacific Partnership agreement and the President’s goal of doubling the nation’s exports, Western ports could realize a considerable increase in activity requiring infrastructure enhancements.
Clean Water Act, International Engagement and Environmental Concerns

July 22, 2012 CSG-WEST Annual Meeting
Edmonton, Alberta

Washington State Senator Karen Fraser shared her and Montana Senate President Jim Peterson’s experience attending the 6th World Water Forum (WWF) that convened in Marseille, France on March 12-17. The WWF is the largest gathering of international stakeholders aimed at sharing ideas and identifying solutions to address complex, global water concerns.

Their participation provided a unique opportunity to engage with parliamentarians from across the globe to discuss water concerns and to learn about the different problem solving approaches and ongoing challenges. As the first U.S. state delegation to ever participate in the WWF, Senator Fraser and Senate President Peterson also had an opportunity to present perspectives on the development of water management in the American West over the last 150 years. The U.S. Army Corp of Engineers, the Center for Natural Resources & Environmental Policy at the University of Montana, the Global Environment & Technology Foundation and CSG-WEST provided support for their participation at this important forum.

The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency’s Assistant Administrator for Water, Nancy Stoner, provided Western lawmakers a federal update, including an overview of some of the projects being conducted by U.S. EPA in the West. With 2012 serving as a backdrop for the 40th Anniversary of the Clean Water Act, Assistant Administrator Stoner took the opportunity to highlight some of the landmark legislation’s advancements.

Participating members had an opportunity to openly discuss general water and environment issues as well as receive an update from the Western States Water Council. Members agreed that convening periodic webinars or committee conference calls on specific water issues would be useful to keep members focused and engaged in water issues.
Economic Development Efforts
July 22, 2012 CSG-WEST Annual Meeting
Edmonton, Alberta

Policymakers heard two excellent presentations on why certain economic development efforts have been successful in Western Canada. One presentation gave a broad, historical analysis of how important the democratic and economic institutions of Canada have been in creating the environment that encourages economic development, whether it be banking, infrastructure, quality education, or political stability. The second presentation focused on some of the current programs that are stimulating economic growth such as tax incentives, export programs, and research and development efforts.

Legislators learned what they can do to help expedite expansion of broadband access in both rural and urban settings. Twenty one different recommendations were offered as to how to expand broadband including creating a specific agency to implement a broadband plan. The recommendations came from a successful program being implemented in California.

Lawmakers also heard a presentation on research conducted over 15 years to determine if tax incentives used to recruit businesses actually jump starts economic development. The conclusion from the research was that the taxes forgone using incentives are never really recouped over time. The taxes collected are better used for education and infrastructure efforts, which are examples of expenditures that may encourage a company to relocate. This committee forum considered answers to these questions and others as members reviewed a wide array of topics designed to strengthen Western economies.

Oregon Senator Elizabeth Steiner–Hayward

Western Economic Development Committee
The Western Economic Development Committee focuses on the growth of Western state economies and the region as a whole, exploring a variety of state approaches to expand and diversify state economies.
Nearly 400 lawmakers, staff and guests from Western states and provinces including Mexico and Canada assembled at the 65th CSG-WEST annual meeting. The July 20-23 conference was hosted by the Government of Alberta, under the leadership of CSG-WEST Chair Representative Rosie Berger of Wyoming. The theme was Western Frontiers -- On the Edge of Innovation.

Opening Session Kicked Off by Ambassador Gary Doer

Ambassador of Canada to the United States of America Gary Doer delivered the opening keynote address. Ambassador Doer talked about the shared history, boundaries and core values shared by Canada, the U.S. and Mexico. The Ambassador shared his insights into what states and provinces can do to strengthen North American cooperation and competitiveness.
Forces Shaping the Global Future

Just a few years ago, if you asked people what their favorite app was or what ebook they were reading, they might have wondered what strange new language you were speaking. But thanks to the rapid evolution of technology, those terms are pretty familiar to most of us today. International futurist Mike Walsh, the founder and CEO of Tomorrow (a consumer innovation research lab) delivered a dynamic and high-impact glimpse into what our world could look like tomorrow. Walsh explained how technology and other transformational forces—from emerging markets to social media—is shaping our future.

Fahrendkamp Award Presented to Wyoming Sen. John Schiffer

The Bettye Fahrendkamp Award for Distinguished Legislative Leadership on Behalf of Western States recognizes leaders whose legislative careers demonstrate the ability to see and work beyond the border of their own states in the interest of the West. The award is named in honor of Bettye Fahrendkamp of Fairbanks, who served with distinction in the Alaska State Senate until her untimely death in 1991.

The recipient of the 2012 award, Senator Schiffer, has served for several years as Chair of the CSG-WEST Energy and Public Lands Committee. He is known among his legislative colleagues in the Western region and other public policy stakeholders as a collaborator and keen advocate of greater planning on energy transmission siting, energy resource development and intergovernmental cooperation. His regional leadership and vision led to the planning and successful execution of the 2009 Western States Energy and Environment Symposium in Jackson Hole, Wyoming, with participation by colleagues from throughout the West. Schiffer is also known for his service and leadership as a mentor and trusted advisor in the Wyoming Legislature.
Western State Centennials

Two Western states celebrated their Centennials in 2012. On January 6 and February 14, 1912 New Mexico and Arizona became the forty-seventh and forty-eighth states, respectively, to be admitted into the union of the United States of America.

Dave Rodney was born on the flatlands of North America, survived four knee surgeries and has broken his back in four places. Still, the inspirational speaker managed to climb Mount Everest, not once but twice. Rodney linked his challenges in the Himalayas to the personal and professional “Everests” that people face every day. On his website, Rodney references a statement from Andrew Bentley of Hewlett Packard “…that in life, in all of our journeys and all of our challenges, there are going to be false summits along the way. But even when that happens, we’ve got to keep on climbing and continue to go higher, wisely.”

Climbing Your Own “Everests”
Created by CSG-WEST Chair Wyoming Representative Rosie Berger, Women in Politics is a professional development forum that takes place at every annual meeting. In 2012, lawmakers gathered for informal conversations about successful political leadership, joined by guest speaker Iris Evans (pictured above), a former Alberta Tory cabinet minister. She shared lessons learned along the way as a woman with 30 years’ experience in Canadian politics.
Forecasting the Nation’s Political Climate

Donna Brazile, a Democratic political strategist, and Rich Galen, a Republican political analyst, discussed the 2012 political scene. Brazile and Galen don’t agree on much, but in this presidential election year, they did agree on one thing: the issues that were being talked about in national politics weren’t the big ones. According to Brazile, “We’re not talking about the large issues, like unfunded pension liabilities or our infrastructure needs.” Galen called the issues in the campaign “so complex that even those of us who think we understand a lot of it, it’s just mind-numbing.”

Special Recognitions

The Honorable Alison Redford, Premier of the Province of Alberta, made a guest appearance and provided remarks at the closing event. The finale was held at the Fairmont Hotel Macdonald, a regal landmark in Edmonton since 1915. Left to Right: The Honorable Cal Dallas, Alberta Minister of International and Intergovernmental Relations; The Honorable Alison Redford, Premier of the Province of Alberta; and Wyoming Representative Rosie Berger, Chair of CSG-WEST

While CSG-WEST annual meetings are known and valued for the exchange of ideas and best practices across Western state borders, Wyoming Representative Rosie Berger, Chair of CSG-WEST, was recognized for her leadership in gathering Western state legislators and Members of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta for one of CSG-WEST’s most unique programming opportunities. In the background, CSG-WEST Chair-Elect Nevada Assemblyman Kelvin Atkinson, who presented the award, applauded with others in appreciation of her chairmanship.

Shooting Star Award

Health Policy Forum

The Health Policy Forum, convened at the annual meeting, provided an opportunity for Western state lawmakers and other stakeholders to discuss and exchange information on a variety of health policy issues.

The forum enabled legislators to exchange information and lessons learned from developing health insurance exchanges in their states, a key element of the federal Affordable Care Act. Western lawmakers also learned about the Canadian health care system, how it has developed over the years, and the challenges faced in meeting the needs of Canadian citizens.
North America Summit IV

This year the annual North America Summit focused on energy and trade issues affecting the U.S., Canada and Mexico. CSG-WEST’s geographic location as a region sharing borders with Mexico and Canada provides strategic opportunities to engage leaders from all three countries in dialogue that identifies areas of greater collaboration.

North America Summit IV benefited from the annual meeting location in Edmonton, Alberta. Attendees enjoyed the participation by Members of Canada’s Parliament and of the Legislative Assembly of Alberta. Member of Parliament for St. Catharines, Rick Dykstra, provided welcoming remarks along with New Mexico Representative Andy Nuñez and Chihuahua Diputado E. Gabriel Flores Viramontes, respectively Chair and Vice Chair of the Border Legislative Conference.

An Energy panel was moderated by Dave Quest, Alberta Member of Legislative Assembly for Strathcona-Sherwood Park, and featured two speakers: Michael Hagood, Program Specialist at Idaho National Laboratory, and Soll Sussman, Coordinator for the U.S.-Mexico Border Energy Forum. Mr. Hagood is the architect for the Western Energy Corridor concept that advances the development and stewardship of world-class energy resources located within the western interior of the United States and Canada. This bi-national effort includes developing collaborative research relationships with regional academic institutions and industry.

Mr. Sussman coordinates the annual U.S.-Mexico Border Energy Forum, now in its 19th year. This forum brings together stakeholders from the border states of the U.S. and Mexico. Its mission is “to foster the exchange of information and ideas about how best to produce and consume energy in this fast-growing region, forge new partnerships, and work together toward twin goals of economic development and environmental protection.” The BEF works to “improve and expand cross-border communications, policy advocacy and outreach regarding the region’s vast potential for clean energy such as solar, wind, other renewables and natural gas as well as energy efficiency and conservation.”

The second panel, jointly moderated by NM Rep. Nuñez and Chihuahua Diputado Flores Viramontes, focused on Low Carbon Economy. D. Rick Van Schoik, Director of the North American Center for Transborder Studies at Arizona State University, provided perspectives on Mexico’s accomplishments and efforts toward reducing emissions of carbon and other greenhouse gases, which has resulted in a number of cooperative agreements with other governments and international organizations on climate change.

Thomas D. Peterson - Founder, President and CEO for the Center for Climate Strategies - and Frank Came - Senior Advisor for GLOBE Foundation, highlighted the opportunities for investment and job creation by way of a green economy. Mr. Came suggested that regional collaboration will allow the leveraging of each jurisdiction’s strengths to create a strong, globally competitive market for clean technology products and services but warned that it “won’t just happen.” Instead, the “transition to a cleaner economy requires vision, leadership, and coherent, economy-wide, strategic approaches.”

Finally, Christopher Wilson, Associate at the Woodrow Wilson International Center for Scholars-Mexico Institute, and Chris Sands, Senior Fellow at the Hudson Institute, punctuated the benefits of North American Trade Cooperation. Mr. Wilson pointed out that Canada is the #1 export market for 34 U.S. states, and 6 million U.S. jobs depend on trade with Mexico. Mr. Sands compared the difference two decades made in U.S.-Canada relations - notably the increase in trade from $171 USD billion in 1982 to $708 USD billion this year. He noted how the 2012 Presidential election was so focused on the economy but not our economic partners. This last panel was moderated by MP Rick Dykstra.
Policy Tours

Attendees of the CSG-WEST 65th Annual Meeting participated in an afternoon of policy tours, showcasing some of Alberta’s best practices.

- Alberta Industrial Heartland Association
  - Canada’s largest hydrocarbon processing region
- Capital Power’s Genesee 3 Supercritical Power Facility
- Waste Management Policy Tour
- Health Policy at the University of Alberta North Campus

Oil Sands Tour

Twenty three Western legislators attending the 65th CSG-WEST annual meeting in Edmonton, accompanied by members of the Alberta government, toured oil sands production sites and open pit mines north of Fort McMurray, Alberta. These mines are operated by Syncrude - a joint venture of oil and gas companies, which is the world’s largest producer of synthetic crude from oil sands and the largest single source in Canada. Twenty percent of all oil sands production comes from open pit mining.

This group also visited a Williams facility where the company produces polymer-grade propylene, a petrochemical feedstock used in plastics manufacturing. When producers convert oil sands into usable oil, the process produces an off-gas byproduct that includes a rich mixture of natural gas, natural gas liquids (NGLs) and olefins. After it extracts the off-gas mixture, Williams returns the clean-burning natural gas to the third-party oil-sands producer for operations. The remaining NGL/olefins mixture is transported by the Boreal Pipeline to Redwater, a facility outside of Edmonton, for further separation into polymer grade propylene.

The final leg of the tour was visiting Cenovus Energy’s Christina Lake in-situ oil sands mining facilities in Conklin, Alberta, learning how this company uses a steam-assisted gravity drainage process and horizontal drilling to extract oil from beneath the surface.
ALTA (Annual Legislative Training Assembly) continues CSG-WEST’s commitment to offer capacity building opportunities for lawmakers, both new and experienced, at each year’s CSG-WEST annual meeting. This year’s session featured “The 7 Secrets of Public Speaking” led by international media coach Richard Greene. Greene has worked with major elected officials, political candidates, athletes and business leaders throughout the world.

“You are 100% responsible for the audience’s experience.”

Richard Greene

WESTRAIN

In the summer of 2012, CSG-WEST officers launched WESTRAIN, a pilot speaker’s bureau project to bring legislative effectiveness training directly to state capitols. California, Colorado, Idaho, Montana and Nevada were selected as the first pilot states. WESTRAIN offered training from experts in communications/public speaking, time management and ethics at new member orientations or other training events for lawmakers of both parties.
The 37 members of the Western Legislative Academy Class of 2012 arrived into Colorado Springs, Colorado fresh off the campaign trail. Nevertheless, they dove into the West’s premier legislative effectiveness training program with energy and enthusiasm. Chosen in a highly competitive process by members of the CSG-WEST Executive Committee, these newer lawmakers came from both parties in state legislatures throughout the West. Classes featured distinguished faculty in communications, time management, ethics, legislative institutions, negotiations and leadership.

An afternoon spent at the U.S. Air Force Academy working on team building was a highlight. Renowned Thomas Jefferson scholar Clay Jenkinson concluded the three-day event with lessons in leadership from the nation’s third president.

CSG-WEST encourages lawmakers in their first four years of total legislative service to apply for WLA 2013. The deadline to apply for WLA 2013 is April 26, 2013. Visit www.csgwest.org for more information.
Nonpartisan legislative staff directors from the Western region met for their annual Legislative Service Agency/Research Directors Fall Training Seminar in early October in Park City, Utah. Members of the LSA/RD Committee participated in both “outside” management training and “inside” sharing of best legislative management practices.

Left to right: Amy Zook of Colorado Legislative Council, Rick Berkobien of Oregon Legislative Administration, Mark Quiner of Wyoming Legislative Service Office, Don Williams of Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau and Mike Christensen of Utah Office of Legislative Research & General Counsel intently listened as Darrell Harmon of People Smart Solutions delivered lessons from best-selling books “Crucial Conversations” and “Crucial Confrontations.”

Charlotte Carter-Yamauchi of the Hawaii Legislative Reference Bureau led a case study in legislative management. Carter-Yamauchi will serve as vice chair of the group in 2013-14.

Left to right: Amy Zook of Colorado Legislative Council, Rick Berkobien of Oregon Legislative Administration, Mark Quiner of Wyoming Legislative Service Office, Don Williams of Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau and Mike Christensen of Utah Office of Legislative Research & General Counsel intently listened as Darrell Harmon of People Smart Solutions delivered lessons from best-selling books “Crucial Conversations” and “Crucial Confrontations.”

Rick Combs of the Nevada Legislative Counsel Bureau captured points made during the discussion on managing generations in the workplace.

Pam Varni, Executive Director of Alaska Legislative Affairs Agency, and Mike Christensen, Director of the Utah Office of Legislative Research & General Counsel, served as chair and vice chair of the CSG-WEST Legislative Services Agency/Research Directors Committee in 2012. LSA/RD members honored Varni for her many years of distinguished service to the group. Christensen will follow her as chair in 2013-14.
WESTR�NDS focuses on the implications for policy makers of the demographic, economic and cultural trends that are shaping Western states. Forums provide opportunities to evaluate the direction and velocity of trends that affect the quality of life in the West.

2012 WESTR�NDS Board Participants

Representative Beth Kerttula, Alaska
Representative Russ Jones, Arizona
Representative Nancy Todd, Colorado
Representative Isaac Choy, Hawaii
Representative Maxine Bell, Idaho
Representative Steve Lavin, Montana
Assemblywoman Irene Bustamante Adams, Nevada
Representative Rudy Martinez, New Mexico
Senator Richard Devlin, Oregon
Representative Jack Draxler, Utah
Senator Karen Fraser, Washington
Representative Norine Kasperik, Wyoming

Convened at the University of Alberta’s Western Centre for Economic Research during the CSG-WEST 65th Annual Meeting, the WESTR�NDS Board held a riveting and insightful dialogue on the emerging economic and political power shifts from central to Western Canada, and the status of economic mobility in the U.S.

Anne McLellan, Canada’s former deputy prime minister and current academic director at the University of Alberta’s Institute of American Studies, along with Dylan Jones, President & CEO of the Canada West Foundation, provided an overview of how the development of energy resources have helped shaped an economic and political transformation in Western Canada. McLellan and Jones discussed the role that cultural and demographic factors have played in this shift and how Alberta’s diversification of markets to Asia will play out in the future. Discussion ensued about how this will impact the region, shaping relationship between Western provinces and U.S. states.

Diana Elliot of the Pew Center for the States shared recent data from the Center’s Economic Mobility Project. Elliot provided great insights on the landscape of Americans’ circumstances today as compared to previous generations and on issues that Western states need to consider to enhance economic mobility. The data on economic mobility showed a mixed picture of how much opportunity exists in America, and for whom.

A special thanks to Jason Brisbois, director of the University of Alberta’s Western Centre for Economic Research, and to Greg Anderson, research director of the University of Alberta’s Institute for American Studies, for their support and for facilitating the WESTR�NDS Board meeting at the University of Alberta.
The Legislative Council on River Governance (LCRG) provides a forum for legislators from Idaho, Montana, Oregon and Washington to exchange ideas and discuss common interests and challenges on water management issues along the Columbia River basin. LCRG also provides an opportunity for participating state legislators to assert state legislative oversight of natural resources and river governance, as well as unite the states to develop a proactive agenda for legislative action and communications.

In 2012, LCRG convened in Boise, Idaho on August 20-21. Participating legislators focused on a number of issues, including water quality challenges, federal biological opinion for the Columbia and Snake Rivers, water rights adjudication, spring run-off and water flows, water infrastructure needs, Clean Water Act and agriculture land irrigation. The meeting was presided over by Idaho Representative John Stevenson.

Presentations made during the meeting can be downloaded by visiting the CSG-WEST website, or go directly to www.csgwest.org/programs/2012LCRGMeeting.aspx

Based on rotation, Oregon will host the 2013 LCRG meeting at a date to be determined. Oregon Senator Doug Whitsett has been selected to serve as chair of LCRG in 2013.
A Model of Multi-Branch Cooperation

The Border Legislative Conference (BLC) serves as a mechanism for ongoing dialogue and collaboration among state legislators of the U.S. and Mexico border states. The BLC legislators engage in a binational agenda designed to develop shared policy solutions between both countries. The BLC works to establish efficient and strategic collaborative efforts with federal and local government and non-governmental organizations, as well as academic institutions on both sides of the border to improve and strengthen the region.

XXV Border Legislative Conference
Over fifty Legislators from the 10 U.S.–Mexico border states convened March 28-30, 2012 in Sacramento, California for the XXV Border Legislative Conference. Participating border legislators focused on the topics of repatriation procedures, solar and renewable energy, interstate cooperative opportunities and the United States-Mexico water treaties.

This event celebrated the BLC’s 10th anniversary, providing an opportunity to highlight the forum’s achievements as well as to recognize former BLC chairs. Both California Speaker John A. Perez and Senate President Pro Tempore Steinberg recognized past BLC chairs with resolutions and recognized all attending legislators in floor sessions of the Assembly and Senate.

Among issues addressed, there were updates on U.S.-Mexico relationships and the Border Research Partnership.

XXVI Border Legislative Conference
On November 8-10, 2012 Chihuahua Vice Chair Diputado E. Gabriel Flores Viramontes hosted the XXVI BLC in the capitol city of Chihuahua with the support of Governor Cesar Duarte Jaquez, his office and the state legislature.

Justice reforms in Mexico and border security, economic development for the border region, environment, migration and immigration were issues addressed at the conference. Among special participants were Consulate General of the United States in Ciudad Juarez, Ian Brownlee, and Minister Counselor for Political Affairs at the U.S. Embassy in Mexico City, Mike Glover.

Members from the U.S. who participated in the conference elected California Senator Lou Correa as incoming BLC Vice Chair, and Texas Senator Jose Rodriguez invited the BLC to convene the XXVII meeting in Austin the spring of 2013.

XXV and XXVI BLC Sponsorship Appreciation
The BLC would like to acknowledge USAID/Mexico for the funding received through a cooperative agreement. In addition, a special thank you for the generous support received from Advance America, Anheuser Busch, Barona Band of Mission Indians, Community Loans of America, Edison International, Mead Johnson Nutrition, Verizon Foundation, and Wintec Energy.

Regional by design, CSG is a national community with six offices across the U.S. All CSG members have the opportunity to participate on two levels—regional and national. This structure invites focused participation from members on a more intimate, regional level and also provides a national community to exchange information and ideas. The regional and national offices also invite international participation through partnerships with Canadian provinces.
